Preparedness—Key to Weathering Any Storm

Benjamin Franklin said it best, “By failing to prepare, you are preparing to fail.” This is true in all facets of life—especially when it comes to CAEC’s disaster preparedness. As we enter a potentially dynamic weather season, we ready ourselves by reviewing and testing our disaster recovery plan.

For the last 70 years your electric cooperative has weathered many storms—hurricanes, tornadoes, ice, snow and straight-line wind. Although we have always strived to keep the system in shape and deliver quality power, there are times the power goes out and the work we do now helps us restore it as quickly and safely as possible.

For example, on Sept. 16, 2004, we had nearly 84 percent of our membership (31,347) without power in the aftermath of Hurricane Ivan, which traveled across our state and passed through our system as a Category I hurricane. Working with crews from across the country, we were able to restore power to all of our members within five days—a feat we are proud of – in the face of downed trees, impassible roads and the many other remnants left by the storm.

It has been during storm restoration procedures that we have realized the maximum benefit of technology. During Ivan, for example, an automated phone system made assisting our members more efficient. While we had employees manning telephones 24-hours a day, the automated system allowed us to accept many more calls simultaneously and gather accurate outage information so dispatchers could route work crews most effectively.

The automated phone system now works with a recent software upgrade. Our new Outage Management System (OMS) displays maps of outages based on incoming phone numbers. This allows staff in the Dispatch Center to evaluate all outages in real time. Although not yet completely installed, the new automated meter reading (AMR) system is also helping dispatchers to determine the severity of outages by sending a signal to meters and having them inform us as to whether the power from the system is on or off in a whole area or just with the individual meter.

Prevention takes preparedness to its highest level by keeping the facilities in shape. Preventative work includes vegetation management, which has played a significant role in reducing outages caused by vines and trees within the 30 foot corridor of the utility right of way. During 2007, however, we experienced a record drought that had a devastating effect on area plant life, resulting in dead trees from outside the corridor falling on the lines and causing outages. We combated this challenge by removing more than 6,000 of these dead trees in the past 12 months.

While our area has been spared a storm of Ivan’s magnitude in the last few years, we must diligently test our disaster recovery plans. Each year we conduct exercises to simulate disasters, helping us stay focused on the possibilities a catastrophe may bring. Be assured that we will also continue investigating new technologies and methods that will keep us prepared—because for us, failure to prepare is simply not an option. ☞

Reliability through the Years

When you hear the years 1993, 1995 and 2004, what comes to mind? If it's a winter storm and two hurricanes, you're not alone. Anyone who lived through these events has stories to tell and impressions that are still with them today.

Whether the problem was snow or damaging winds, CAEC's primary focus has been on its members. As the co-op commemorates its 70th anniversary, we look back at three major events that touched our service area and other cooperative systems across the state.

A White Nightmare

On Sat., March 13, 1993, every one of Alabama's 22 cooperatives was affected by what the National Weather Service termed "the storm of the century," which was later ranked as one of Alabama's top 10 weather events of the 20th century.

Winter Storm '93 brought a snowfall of more than 10 inches to most areas of the state, including CAEC's service area. Wind gusts of 40 to 60 miles per hour blew snow into drifts of two to three feet or higher. It was the biggest snowfall recorded in the Montgomery area since 1914.

CAEC employees were immediately called in to work to answer phones, as an emergency generator powered two-way radios and phones. Approximately two-thirds of the co-op's service area (15,000 members) lost electricity early when Alabama Power's transmission system lost power to seven of CAEC's substations. Crews in Autauga, Chilton, Coosa and Elmore counties worked 24 hours a day to restore power to members, then traveled to north Alabama to assist sister cooperatives.

Opal, A Catastrophic Storm

In less time than it takes many Alabamians to drive to the beach, Hurricane Opal cut a deadly path from the state's southern border to its Tennessee boundary on Wed., Oct. 4, 1995.

By the following morning, 52 percent of our members were without power. Six of CAEC's service counties, including Autauga, Elmore, Coosa, Lowndes, Talladega and Tallapoosa, were included in the 33 Alabama counties declared disaster areas.

The damage Opal caused to Alabama's electric cooperatives was one of the most expensive in history and cost CAEC more than $600,000. Fortunately for our members, crews restored electrical service to the entire system by late Mon., Oct. 9 with assistance from some Mississippi cooperatives.

Ivan the Terrible

Even though it was only a Category I storm when it hit CAEC's service area, Hurricane Ivan caused nearly 84 percent of our membership to be without power for some length of time. The storm struck on Thurs., Sept. 16, 2004 and left widespread damage.

With 97 co-op linemen, 12 Petty Construction linemen, 50 Asplundh right-of-way workers, various food suppliers, member volunteers and employees' families, CAEC's ranks exceeded more than 290 people working together to put the system back on-line.

Nearly 16,000 man-hours were logged from Thursday to Monday, hundreds of trees were removed, more than 190 poles were replaced and tens of thousands of calls were answered. Ninety-seven cooperative linemen from Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, Indiana, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Tennessee also came and helped to repair the system and restore power to all members within five days.

While these are just three of the many weather events that have challenged CAEC, we have made it through all of them, thanks to strategic disaster planning and the hard work of co-op employees near and far. As we prepare for CAEC's next 70 years, we know the lessons of the past, along with the plans we have in place, will help us no matter what storm comes our way. ☘

The screenshot shows the CAEC website homepage. At the top left is the CAEC logo: a green circle with white stylized waves, followed by the text "Central Alabama Electric Cooperative" and "A Touchstone Energy® Cooperative" with a small logo. To the right of the logo is a search bar with "search CAEC" and a "GO" button. Below the logo is a navigation menu with links: "Home", "About CAEC", and "Contact Us". A dark green horizontal bar contains a secondary navigation menu with links: "Customer Service", "Products/Services", "Green Solutions", "Community Connection", and "Economic Development". The main content area is divided into several sections. On the left, a vertical green sidebar contains four icons and labels: "Pay/View Bill", "New Service", "Publications", and "Outages". Below this sidebar are three promotional boxes: "Home Energy Savings" with a house icon and "Learn How" button; "Kids Zone" with a cartoon lightbulb character and "Go There" button; and "Start Saving Today" with a brief description of the Co-op Connections Card and a "Read More..." link. To the right of the "Start Saving Today" section is an image of the Co-op Connections Card. Below that is the "Member Education" section with three sub-sections: "What can 'green' do for you?", "What does PURPA mean for you?", and "Get the best of both energy sources...". To the right of the "Member Education" section is the "Just Announced" section with two sub-sections: "24/7 Customer Service" and "Members Join ACRE".

2008 Couples Conference in Orange Beach — See You There!

As a cooperative member, you can have a unique opportunity this summer to network with other young couples from across the state. Are you interested in attending the 2008 Alabama Cooperative Couples Conference in Orange Beach? This three-day forum, held July 28-30, allows couples to gain insight into the cooperative world while enjoying a picturesque setting.

Since 1975, CAEC has participated in this conference by sponsoring two couples. If you're interested in applying, you must be a member of CAEC (past Couples Conference attendees are not eligible). For more information about the Alabama Cooperative Couples Conference, or to apply by May 16, call 1-800-545-5735 ext. 2125 or visit www.caec.coop.

CAEC History Fact

Terry Mitchell, who was elected to CAEC's Board of Trustees for District 4 in 1999, and his wife Diane (pictured) attended the Couples Conference in 1996.

In 1994, Van Smith was elected to serve on CAEC's Board, representing District 7. He and his wife Ann are Couples Conference alumni from 1992.

CAEC Statement of Non-Discrimination

Central Alabama Electric Cooperative is the recipient of federal financial assistance from the Rural Utilities Services (RUS), an agency of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, and is subject to the provisions of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended, Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, as amended, the Age Discrimination Act of 1975, as amended, and the rules and regulations of the U.S. Department of Agriculture which provide that no person in the United States on the basis of race, color, national origin, gender, religion, age, disability, political beliefs and marital or family status shall be excluded from participation in, admission or access to, denied the benefits of, or otherwise be subjected to discrimination under any of this organization's programs or activities. The person responsible for coordinating this organization's nondiscrimination compliance efforts is Tom Stackhouse, President/Chief Executive Officer. Any individual, or specific class of individuals, who feels that this organization has subjected them to discrimination may obtain further information about the statutes and regulations listed above from and/or file a written complaint with this organization; or write USDA, Director, Office of Civil Rights, Room 326-W, Whitten Building, 14th and Independence Avenue, SW, Washington, DC 20250-9410 or call (202) 720-5964 (voice and TDD). Complaints must be filed within 180 days after the alleged discrimination. Confidentiality will be maintained to the extent possible.

Stay Away from Downed Power Lines

Power lines supply vital electricity to our homes and businesses, but they should never be touched. In the aftermath of any storm, especially one with high winds, be aware there may be downed power lines in the area.

If you see a power line on the ground, don't assume it is de-energized. Use extreme caution! Even getting near it could cause serious bodily injury or even death. In fact, anything touching a downed line may be dangerous.

Warn others to stay away and immediately report a downed line to the local utility company and call the police. Do not assume the downed line is merely a telephone or cable line and avoid contact with anything, such as tree limbs or standing water, that may be touching the line, because it too can conduct electricity from the downed line.

If by chance you see anyone who has been shocked and is in contact (direct or indirect) with a power line, do not touch the person. Any efforts to pull an electric shock victim away could make you a second victim. The safest procedure is to immediately call emergency services and the local utility.

If a power line falls on your car while you are in it, you should stay inside the vehicle. This is the safest place to remain under the circumstances. Honk your horn to alert passers-by or roll down the window and warn people not to touch the car or the line. Ask someone to call the local utility company and emergency services. The only reason you should consider leaving your car that is in contact with a downed line is if the vehicle catches fire. If this happens, open the door, but do not step out; instead, make sure you jump completely free of the vehicle (as far as possible) with both feet together to avoid contact with the live car.

Remember, only knowledgeable utility company employees who are protected by the appropriate safety equipment should touch or move downed lines. Call the utility provider if you have any concerns about a downed power line.

The Time is Right for Installing Attic Insulation

Adding insulation to your attic is relatively easy and a long-term cost effective measure. While temperatures outside are comfortable (and consequently so is the temperature inside your attic), now is the best time to make sure your attic has the proper amount of insulation and to make adjustments if it doesn't.

Insulation is measured in R-values—the higher the R-value, the better the roof will resist the transfer of heat. The U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) recommends R-values (based on local heating and cooling costs) and advises an R-49 attic insulation value for homes in Alabama.

If you find that you need to add insulation to your home, remember these tips:

- Use higher density insulation, such as rigid foam boards, in cathedral ceilings.

- Ventilation plays a large role in providing moisture control while also reducing summer cooling bills. Attic venting can be installed along the entire ceiling cavity to help ensure proper airflow and make a home more comfortable and energy efficient.

- Recessed light fixtures can be a major source of heat loss, but you need to be careful how close you place insulation next to a fixture unless it is marked IC, which is designed for direct insulation contact. Check your local building codes or consult an electrician for recommendations.

- Follow the product instructions on installation and wear the proper protective gear when installing insulation.

Typically, adding attic insulation takes minimal time and adds long-term savings to your heating and cooling bills. Avoid high and dangerous summer temperatures by modifying your insulation now. If you have any questions or concerns, contact a local contractor or insulation installation company.

We Did Our Part

We're participating with other members in CAEC's peak shaving program. Simply put, we're allowing our co-op to delay the re-heating cycle on our water heaters. It's a win-win program – we still have hot water when we need it, and the co-op avoids paying peak-time power costs. If enough of us join this effort, we can have a positive effect on our future rates. Will you join us?

The peak shaving device for your electric water heater is free, and will be installed by a licensed electrician at no cost to you.

Yes, I agree to do my part by joining CAEC's peak shaving program.

A New Year with the Value of Membership and the Co-op Connections Card!

It's been a little more than four months since CAEC debuted the Co-op Connections Card—yet another value of membership from your cooperative.

Have you used your card yet? Don't miss out; some of your fellow members have already saved thousands of dollars on prescriptions alone! With more than 70 local and 50 national businesses participating in the program, the savings are everywhere you turn.

As a further benefit to you, another nearby co-op, Baldwin EMC, offers this program to their members, and this means discounts at the beach for you! If you're headed on a road trip to visit the sites of Baldwin County, use your Co-op Connections Card at those participating businesses and save big.

New discounts are constantly added to the program, so check our website: www.caec.coop for real-time updates. The following pages list our local participating businesses, Baldwin County's participants and the national discount offers that are part of the Co-op Connections Card program. If you own or manage a business and would be interested in joining this program, at no charge, contact (800) 545-5735, ext. 2178.

Pharmacy Discount FAQ's

How much can I save at the pharmacy?

The discounts save you 10 to 60 percent on certain prescriptions at more than 48,000 pharmacies nationwide, including CVS, Walgreens, Wal-Mart, Target and more.

How much does the feature cost?

Your pharmacy discounts are provided as part of your Co-op Connections program at no cost.

How are these pharmacy discounts different from traditional prescription insurance?

The plan is not insurance; it is a pharmacy discount offer. The card provides immediate discounts at the pharmacy. Upon presenting your card to the pharmacist, you will pay the lower of a discounted price or the pharmacy's regular retail price. There are no forms to fill out and no limit to the number of times you can use the card. These discounts are available only at participating retail pharmacies. Check the Web site for prices- www.rxpricequotes.com.

Can I use my Co-op Connections card with my current insurance benefit to reduce my costs?

Your card cannot be used in conjunction with insurance; however, use your card to purchase prescriptions not covered by your insurance plans at a discounted rate.

Where can I get a list of pharmacies that accept the card?

The Co-op Connections card is accepted at more than 48,000 retail pharmacies nationwide, including CVS, Walgreens, Wal-Mart, Target and more.

You can find participating pharmacy locations at www.locateproviders.com.

When checking Web sites or calling, you'll need to give the Member # and Group # located on the back of the card.*
